

Darren McCrombie Interrogation Transcript

Officer R [REDACTED]: So, Mr. McCrombie, is it?

Darren McCrombie: Yes...

Officer R [REDACTED]: It says here that you are the founder and CEO of the Extra-Terrestrial Contact Society, is that correct?

Darren McCrombie: That is correct. It is my life's work.

Officer R [REDACTED]: Good. Good. Can you tell me about what happened with the ETCS approximately 4 days ago?

Darren McCrombie: [Silent]

Officer R [REDACTED]: Mr. McCrombie?

Darren McCrombie: That's what all this is about? That stupid little experiment?

Officer R [REDACTED]: Now now, there is no need to shout Sir. I am merely looking for some answers.

Darren McCrombie: Fine. You want answers? Well, 4 days ago my team and I decided to test an experiment with radio waves. It was suggested by Mike, our radio tech. He thought that if we sent a radio signal connected to our company radio out into space, that something might be able to intercept the signal and respond. We sat there for an hour asking random questions, and then we all went home. There are your answers.

Officer R [REDACTED]: Is that your understanding of the situation Darren?

Darren McCrombie: Yes. That's all that happened. Are you happy?

Officer R [REDACTED]: Very much so. You're free to go. [END TAPE]
